

Email: ***UNCHECKED***

Last Updated Tuesday, 19 June 2007

I occasionally get emails that have ***UNCHECKED*** in the subject line. What does that mean?

Our server does virus and spam filtering. But there is a point where files are so large that for our servers to scan them it would put entirely too much of a load on the system. To avoid that, any emails that are over 2 meg in size will not be scanned. ***UNCHECKED*** is to tell you that the email has not gone through the filtering process. In otherwords, it may contain a virus or it may be spam. So practicing standard email precautions is in order.
